Experience a Whitewater Thrill
Multiple whitewater rapids including Washout, Rattlesnake and Moody test rafters and boaters on the lower 25 miles of the Deschutes. A Lower Deschutes River Boater Pass is required for every individual who is on the Deschutes River at any time with a floating device (including float tubes). You can purchase a pass online at www.recreation.gov.

Pick Your Hike
The park has three trails reserved just for hikers.

The Blackberry Trail runs for two miles along flat terrain at the river’s edge. It is paralleled by the Riverview Trail, a two-mile route along a terrace above the river. Together, the two trails form a four-mile loop.

The third trail—Ferry Springs Trail—forms a scenic loop toward the canyon rim with views of the surrounding hills and the river.

Please note: Bicycles are not allowed on hiking trails.

Ride a Bike…
Enjoy a 32-mile round-trip bicycling experience by following the Old Railbed Trail 16 miles up the canyon and back. Camping is allowed along the trail, but strict regulations are enforced. The trail is an easy, flat grade, but mountain bikes are recommended due to the dirt and gravel surface. Be prepared with a patch kit in case of a flat tire— it’s a long walk back. Also, make sure to take plenty of water; summer temperatures can rise to 110 degrees.

…Or a Horse
From March 1 through June 30, you can ride on the 22-mile (round trip) horse trail with a reservation. The trail follows the same Old Railbed Trail route as the bicycle path, ending at Harris Canyon. Go to store.oregonstateparks.org to reserve your trip. The trail is open from sunrise to sunset.

No overnight camping is allowed.
