

Jackson F. Kimball State Recreation Site

Jackson F. Kimball is set near the headwaters of the Wood River, about 10 miles southeast from Crater Lake National Park. The campground has 12 primitive sites without water, and vault toilets. Follow the trail from the campground to the river headwaters, or launch your kayak or canoe on the river for a peaceful trip along the forested river corridor.

Horse camp guidelines

- Help protect natural resources: do not tether, hitch or tie your horse or pack animal to trees. Using a highline or hobbles is prohibited.
- Bring your own certified weed-free feed to help prevent the spread of invasive weeds in the park. Do not let your animals graze around campsites.
- Campers are responsible for providing animal bedding.
- Please clean corrals before you depart.

Boating

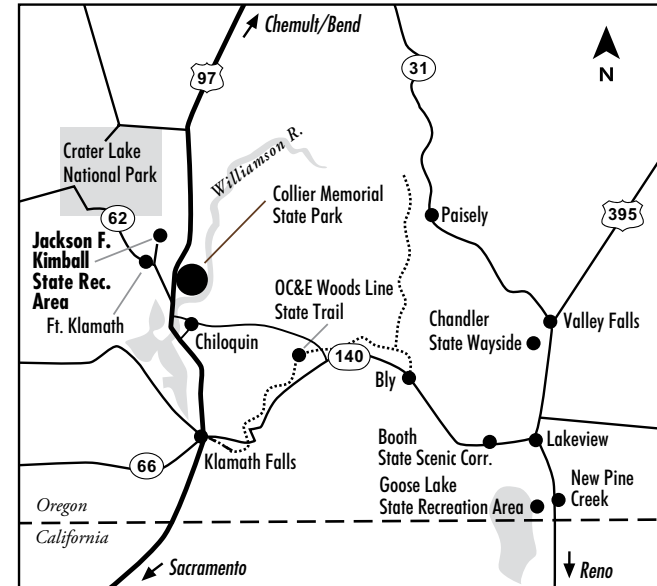

Only use established water access areas to enter the waterway. Established launch sites are safer, and also help protect riparian zones from erosion and habitat degradation. Please be respectful to neighboring landowners as you travel along the river.

Invasive species control

Help us stop the spread of invasive species by inspecting your watercraft before entering or leaving the waterway:

- Make sure it is clean of any vegetation or debris.
- Drain any standing water.
- Ensure the craft is dry before entering a new waterway.

Note: invasive species permits are required to operate watercraft on Oregon's waterways. Visit the Oregon Department of Fish & Wildlife website for more information.

Smoking in Oregon State Parks is allowed only in personal vehicles, RVs, campsites and portions of day use parks along state highways that are designated as safety rest areas by the Oregon Department of Transportation.
